Three on trial after student's death in Sussex

7:16am Monday 21st September 2009

A man will go on trial today accused of the manslaughter of a teenage Arab student.

George Austin, 22, of Barkworth Road, Bermondsey, south east London, denies the unlawful killing of 16-year-old Mohammed al-Majed.

Mohammed, from Qatar, died two days after suffering a serious head injury when he hit the pavement during a fracas in Hastings on August 22 2008.

Austin will appear at Lewes Crown Court alongside two other men who are on bail.

Paul Rockett, 21, of Ham Lane, Burwash, near Etchingham, denies a charge of racially aggravated common assault on one of Mohammed's friends.

Alexander Quinn, 19, of Mountbatten Close, Hastings, also denies a charge of wounding another of the student's friends.

Police arrested Austin on an aircraft which landed in the UK from Cyprus last November 20.

Mohammed was studying English at EF
